

Geography Intent at Farmilo

At Farmilo, we intend for all of our children to develop a lifelong curiosity and sense of the world, its people and cultures as well as nurture an appreciation for their local area and their place within it. We aim for all our children to receive knowledge that is vital to acquire a sound understanding of location, place, human and physical processes as well as obtaining geographical skills, such as map reading and fieldwork. At Farmilo, we intend to teach and foster a vast and accurate geographical vocabulary so children gain a rich, varied language. Children are also introduced to significant individuals in each topic, providing links to the real world and raising aspirations. By the time our children leave year six, they will have developed a greater understanding of the world around them and explored their local area; understanding the heritage and what makes our local area unique and special. All children will have applied their investigative skills by conducting fieldwork in and around our local area of Pleasley and Mansfield.
